Episode Theme: Doing What's Right – God Calls His People

1. What do you think makes a good leader? In the Old Testament, it was unusual for a woman to be chosen as Israel's leader, but God knew that Deborah would make a good leader for his people at this time.
2. We often think about leaders as the strongest, smartest, or most popular, but God wants leaders who trust and obey him. But the Israelites kept disobeying God and turning to other gods. As you listen, think about what made Deborah a good leader in God's eyes.

After You Listen

Throughout Israel's history, God showed the people of Israel that they could trust him, even in what seemed like hopeless situations. He showed his faithfulness time after time. God called leaders for his people who would trust and obey him. In this story, Israel's small army faced a terrifying enemy that seemed too big to defeat. Israel's general, Barak, was too afraid to trust God's word and follow his directions. Deborah, however, remembered God's power and faithfulness and obeyed him. Because Deborah listened to God and obeyed his commands, Israel was freed from slavery.

Challenge

Play a game of follow the leader, but with a twist. Set up a straightforward path around a room with a few obstacles. One person is blindfolded, and the other has to guide them through the path by giving instructions. This is a great way to practice the leadership skills of listening and obeying. Of course, you need to make sure that you trust the person giving the instructions! As you listen carefully to and follow the commands, think about Deborah and how she trusted and obeyed God.
