CASEY'S DAY

written by Ron Vandenburg
illustrated by Chad Thompson

Imagine if my neighbor was building a new house, and I decided I wanted to go help out. But there's one problem: I don't know what to do! What if I showed up with my hammer and some nails, ready to help with the project, but no one gave me instructions when I got there? I would probably look around and decide all by myself the best place to use my tools. I might work hard that day but discover later that all of that hard work didn't help build the house.

Instead, I would need someone in charge to stop me and tell me what to do. The boss would know all of the plans for the house and what kind of work would be helpful. Then I would know that all my hard work had a purpose.

Think about this: It's possible to do work FOR GOD and not do that work WITH GOD. There's a big difference.

Doing work FOR GOD might come from a desire to serve him, but if we do it on our own, we won't have the strength, certainty, or ability to do it. But, when we work WITH GOD, we stop and ask God what he wants us to do, and we join him in what he's already doing.

When we are building WITH GOD, he gives us what we need and directions for where to go. When our instructions come from him, our hearts can rest, because we know we are doing the right things, and God gives us the strength to do them!

Prayer

Lord, thank you for always providing what I need. Please help me to remember to always follow your lead. Amen.
